Social and Personal

Quantities of lilacs and pink blossoms decorated the Waddill home, 24 Park Avenue, last evening for the marriage of Miss Mary Lamb Waddill, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Edmund Waddill, Jr., and Captain Richard Farnham, Coast Artillery, United States Army. The drawing-rooms were banked in pink and white flowers against a background of palms, bay trees and southern smilax and lighter candles, which took place at 8:30 o'clock, in the presence of only the nearest relatives and friends, and additional guests were invited for the reception following. The table in the dining-room was set with a centerpiece of white flowers, and candles shaded in white and silver.

The bride's wedding gown was fashioned of white brocade, charmingly finished with lace and her long veil of illusion fell from a wreath of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of white orchids, and her only ornament was a pearl necklace. The bride came down the stairway with her father, who gave her away, and they were met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, Lieutenant John Robert Ellis, Coast Artillery, who was his sister's father. The bride's bridesmaids were Misses Mary, Elizabeth, and Alice Waddill, and Misses Margaret Blair Cannon were flower girls. They wore quaint white costumes, and carried old-fashioned nosegays of pink flowers.

The wedding was a brilliant affair in every detail, and a great many functions were given for the bride party. An orchestra played the wedding music and for the reception. Mrs. Waddill wore a handsome gown of black chiffon embroidered in silver and made over with a bouquet of orchids. Mrs. Arthur Cannon was given in coral-colored chaise, and Mrs. Richard Farnham, mother of the groom, wore black lace over white satin. Captain Farnham, who is a native of Philadelphia, is a graduate of West Point in the class of 1901, and is now stationed at Fort Monroe, where he will make his home on their return from their honeymoon. Guests from a distance attending the wedding yesterday were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Taylor Thorpe, Roland Thorpe, and Mrs. Floyd Robert Thorpe, Spelman, all of Norfolk; Senator and Mrs. Charles F. Lassiter, of Petersburg; Mr. and Mrs. Frederick P. Allen, of Newport News; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wolcott, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Russell, of Norfolk; Miss Sue Pettlow, of Franklin; Mrs. Richard Farnham, of Fort Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Percy S. Stephenson, of Norfolk; Lieutenant and Mrs. Gordon Elyson, United States Navy; Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Dennis, of Baltimore; Captain E. A. Greene, United States Marine Corps; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Harvie, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Richard B. Davis, Judge Mullin, of Petersburg; Judge and Mrs. Jeter C. Pritchard, of Asheville, N. C.; Dr. and Mrs. H. D. Spaulding, of Maryland; Miss Cralle, of Hanover; Miss Betts, of Onancock; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Switzer, of Goodland; Mrs. John Holcomb, of Fort Monroe.

Debutante Dance. Miss Phyllis Taylor will be introduced to Richmond society by attending a dance given by her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Phil Taylor, at the Country Club of Virginia. Special cars have been chartered to bring the guests home from the club after the dance is over.

A quilt wedding of much interest to Richmond society celebrated yesterday morning at 11 o'clock at the bride's apartments in the Chesterfield, was that of Miss Otlyn Virginia Culpepper, daughter of Mrs. Charles Lee Culpepper, and William Leo Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Miller. Owing to the death of the bride's uncle, Colonel John S. Harwood, the wedding was a very quiet one, with only the immediate family and a few intimate friends present. The ceremony was performed by Dr. George W. McDaniel, assisted by the Rev. Reginald Potts, and the improvised altar, arranged in the drawing-room, was decorated in Ascension lilacs, Cathedral candles and Southern smilax. White flowers and trailing vines were used everywhere, and vases of white chrysanthemums were arranged about the room. Sheppard Webb played "Lohengrin Wedding March" as a prelude, and "O Promise Me" and "I Love You Truly" very softly during the service.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her mother, wore a modish traveling dress of dark blue brocade of ponce, slightly draped and made with a vest of Persian-colored brocade. Her imported hat of blue brocade velvet, embellished with hand-painted panels, was trimmed with plumes shaded from green to taupe, and her only ornament was the groom's gift, a diamond and pearl necklace. She carried a shower bouquet of lilacs of the valley, white orchids and bride roses. Miss Margaretie Duncan, of Portsmouth, who attended her cousin as maid of honor, wore a lovely gown of pink charmeuse made with an overdraped ascension plaited chiffon and a coat of shadow lace. The bride was finished with a wide black velvet bow and black tulle, and she wore a French black lace hat trimmed in plumes and fur. She carried a bouquet of pink roses fringed with lilacs of the valley. John Harwood, Jr., was the groom's best man and only attendant.

Mrs. Culpepper was given in white crepe trimmed in silk tassels, and she wore pearl ornaments. Mr. and Mrs. Miller left immediately after the ceremony for a wedding journey that includes New York, Boston, Albany, Philadelphia and Atlantic City, and on their return to Richmond, January 1, they will be at home at 2101 Park Avenue.

For Miss Prentiss. Mr. and Mrs. F. Travers Wood entertained at an informal dance, followed by a chafin-dish supper last evening in their apartment at Monroe Terrace. The affair was given in honor of their debutante sister, Miss Katherine Prentiss, and the guests included the hosts of the season and the younger dancing men. Decorations were in pink roses and chrysanthemums.

Supper Monday Night. After the final performance of the Kirmess Monday night, the Quaker dance was entertained by the young men in the dance at a prettily appointed supper at the Commercial Club. The chaperones included Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pourqurean, Mr. and Mrs. John Frischkorn and Mrs. Clarke. The dancers were Misses Annette Dabney, Martha Sutherland, York Hines, Helen Scherer, Mattie Pourqurean, Elise Garrett, Ella Fesefeldt, Margaret Tobben, Blanche Cole, Annie Polby, Messrs. Kirk, of the Franklin Street Presbyterian Church, officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Kregel were married after the ceremony for an extended Northern tour.

Granger-England.
The daughter of Miss Jeannette Eng-

Wilson England, and Herman Holliday Granger, will be celebrated this afternoon at 6 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, 112 Warren Street, Wilson, N. C. After a wedding journey, they will return to their home in Switzerland, respectively. Instead of in the United Kingdom.

True, the duke was born as an Engin Worcestershire, where he has the Blenheim Park estate, which came to him through his great-grandfather, last of the ancient county family of Hornoyld, which had been in uninterrupted possession of Blackmore Park since the twelfth century. The present duke, however, preferred Italian to English citizenship. He did not like life in England, and accordingly secured letters of naturalization in Italy.

It was in 1808 that he was naturalized as an Italian citizen, and not as an Englishman, that he married at Turin four years ago, Donna Francesca Pe di Ner-viano. But the union was not a happy one, and since the Italian code does not recognize divorce, he proceeded to again change his nationality, and obtained letters of naturalization in Switzerland. As soon as these were granted, that is to say, last spring, he instituted proceedings in the Canton of Fribourg for a decree of nullity, and, failing that, of divorce.

The duchess, realizing that the bulk of her husband's property was in England, they were in a position to land, that he owned practically nothing in Switzerland, and had no source of income there save his salary as professor of zoology and of natural science at the University of Geneva, which could be attached, inaugurated proceedings in the English courts of divorce, in hope of being thereby able to assure her financial future. The dukes contested the competence of the English courts, and his contention has been sustained.

his marriage was contracted abroad

Good Will at Court Toward the

BY LA MARQUE DE FONTENAY.
THERE is no truth whatsoever in this report of a reconciliation between the Duke and Duchess of Westminster, and, as if to emphasize the bitterness of the relations between them, their eldest daughter, Lady Frances, who is making her debut, and a very beautiful child, has been taken from the duchess and placed under the care of the duke's mother, the widowed Countess of Grosvenor, with whom she is making her home, at Salghatte Grange. The latter is within easy distance of the duke's Cheshire country seat, Eaton Hall, and when in residence there he is constantly with his mother and his little girl, to whom he is devoted.

The duke has been entertaining throughout the fall a series of house-parties at Eaton Hall, at which the honors have been done either by his mother, Lady Grosvenor, or else by his sisters, Lady Shaftesbury or Lady Beauchamp. Both of them, although at first they were reported to be sym-pathized with the duchess, have now openly espoused the cause of the duke, as have all his other relatives. Including his uncle and aunt, the Duke and Duchess of Teck, who are brother and sister-in-law of Queen Mary.
Thanks to this, and to the fact that his sisters, Lady Beauchamp and Lady Shaftesbury, are members of Queen Mary's household and among her closest friends, his case has been presented in the best possible light at court, and the good will formerly manifested there towards the duchess, no longer exists.

Meeting This Morning.
The regular monthly meeting of the board of managers of the Virginia Home for Incurables will be held this morning at 10 o'clock.

Miss Annie Epps, of Nottoway County, and John Hendrick Berry, of Wilmington, N. C., were married yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. G. T.
Berry, No. 912 East Marshall Street.
The ceremony was performed by Rev.
Russell Cecil, D. D., in the presence of a small gathering of friends and relatives. The bride wore a gown of wisteria broadcloth, and carried a shower bouquet of lilacs of the valley.
Her only ornament was a diamond bracelet, the gift of the groom. Mrs.
Frank Epps, of Farmville, was matron of honor, and G. T. Hutt, of Richmond, was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Berry left for a trip to Washington and Richmond, after which they will go to Wilmington to live.

At the Art Club.
Yesterday was story-telling afternoon at the Art Club of Richmond. Miss Lou Bell Catesby Jones told a number of charming stories to a large and interesting audience that gathered in the club room. The program was a very comprehensive one, which included folk tales of Norse, Swedish and English origin, pathetic little stories and happy tales from many lands.
The happy Prince, an Easter story, brought the afternoon to a delightful close. Tea was served by the house committee, and the club was decorated in shades of yellow chrysanthemums.
The story-telling will continue every morning at 11 o'clock at the home.
Much important business is to be discussed and transacted.

fact, the Hornoylds figure repeatedly in the pages of English history, and hold an honored place among the old Catholic titled and untitled aristocracy of Great Britain. The Hornoyld estates are very large and valuable, and extend from the Malvern Hills to the River Severn. It was a source of amusement to the county families of Worcester that the father of the present duke should have preferred the name of Gandolph, a mythical ancestry, and foreign titles, to the honored and historic old English name of Hornoyld.

Every visitor to London from this side of the Atlantic knows the beautiful equestrian statue of Charles I., the first statue in London which marks the site of his original Charles Cross, erected by Edward I. to sig-nalize the penultimate resting place of the remains of his beloved consort, Queen Jane. In their progress from the northernmost portion of the kingdom to their tomb in Westminster Abbey. Moreover, by the irony of fate, or the deliberate intentions of the Restoration Parliament, it stands on the spot where the regicides were executed in 1660, the statue having been replaced there fourteen years after wards. As it is no longer in keeping with the new arrangements resulting from the opening up of the Admiralty Arch, the authorities propose to move it to some site in Whitehall from Trafalgar Square. This is meeting with great opposition, on historic and aesthetic grounds.

The statue was torn down on the execution of Charles I. by orders of Cromwell, and sold for old metal to a copper-smith, who promised to break it up. Instead, he buried it deep in his backyard, sold large quantities of bric-a-brac, alleged to have been made of the metal of the statue, to secret Royalist sympathizers, reaping a fortune thereby, and then, after the Restoration, disinterred the statue uninjured, and sold it intact for a large sum to the government of Charles II.
